Collaboration Service Metrics Released

Collaboration Service Metrics of Hypersoft OmniAnalyser™ Allow to Effectively and Easily Manage the Applications that Form the Collaboration Platform of the Modern Enterprise

June 6, 2007, Munich, Germany

Hypersoft Information Systems, the leader in business service management software, today announced the immediate availability of complete collaboration service metrics. Now Hypersoft state-of-the-art product OmniAnalyser™ provides enterprises around the world with the most comprehensive reports on collaboration services for efficiently managing the company's communication processes and resources.

Hypersoft additional functionality offers a wide range of reports for the rapidly growing area of enterprise collaboration services. These are detailed reports for Lotus Domino, Microsoft Exchange, Microsoft Office Communication Server, SharePoint, Sametime, and QuickPlace coming as part of the Collaboration Service feature set included in Hypersoft OmniAnalyser™ software.

Hypersoft's products provide clear understanding of user communication patterns and information-sharing. The reports help the enterprise with organization resources management such as, for example, optimal meetings scheduling, facilitating and managing social networking, and identifying communities in an enterprise. Providing detailed statistics of the user activity, Hypersoft's key product OmniAnalyser™ presents a wide range of collaboration service metrics including the ones characterizing user experience and real transactions. The reports also help to identify what databases, servers, and other resources are used actively while others remain dormant.

"The importance of enterprise collaboration services is growing all over the world today. Collaboration is among the hottest topics that
